ANNOUNCEMENTS

Miss M. C. Adles will be in Norwich

Frank A. Bill has the exclusive sale of ladies' Patrician shoes and exfords at $3.50 and $4.00. See the new styles.

The Auditorium.

Direct from S. T. Polis' vaudeville theatre in Hartford comes James A. Murphy, the king of xlyphonists who will be here for the first three days of this week to prove his title to the Norwich theatregoers. A novelty act, and one of the best of its kind in vaudeville will be presented by the Tordeska Keating Trio of comedy bicyclists who perform such marvelous stunts that they have been pronounced dare devils of the highest order.

The Shaw Twins, two very pretty young ladies who are accomplished in the art of whistling will entertain their hearers with this odd gift of nature, also work in a little singing and dancing on the side.

The motion pictures for today and tomorrow are particularly interesting, clear and steady and the temperature The Auditorium.

The new political party will consist of Colonel Roosevelt, Pinchot, Garfield, Glavis, Jack Abernathy and his two boys, Seth Bullock, all of the Rough Riders, Hobson and the rest of the jingo contingent, and the fathers of large families. It will have no need of a platform; the colonel is a platform in himself. It will be an impasing aggregation, but still we believe there will be room in the United States for the democratic and republican parties.—Philadelphia Record.

POETRY.

THE SEAS OF SHENCE.

Around the axis of the world,
Where flag shall never be unfuried
In sign of sovereignty;
By eye unseen, by keel unpressed,
Whose depths no sounding-line has guessed,
In icy fetters doomed to stay
Till Earth itself shall pass away,
There rolls a silent sea.

Beyond the utmost reach of mind.
That searches Heaven and Earth to find
The keys to Mystery;
Beyond the Sun's remotest beam.
Beyond Arcturus' faintest Neam.
Where distance ends, and from afar
No longer star can signal star,
There flows a silent sea.

Ere planets out of chaps came,
Or even chaos had a name,
A sea slept silently;
When suns are cold, and rolling spheres,
Have ceased to mark the flight of years,
This sea shall stretch behind, before,
A silent sea without a shore—
The sea Eternity.

Hard by the city's busy marts.
Where men and women play their parts. In mirth and tragedy:
Below the passions of the street,
Below where tears and laughter meet.
There phantom ships sail in the night,
Without a pilot or a light,
Out to the silent sea. Deep down in every human breast
Come times of caim, when all unrest
And vain repinings flee;
When banished Hope regains control,
When Love possesses all the soul,
And Faith, from Earth's receding
strand,
Discerns through mists the Bettst
Land
Across Death's silent sea.

Charles Mumford,

JACOB'S LADDER. Ah! many a time we look, on starlie Up to the sky as Jacob did of eld, ook longing up to the eternal lights, To spell their lines of gold.

But nevermore as to the Hebrew boy Bach on his way the angels walk abroad.

And nevermore we hear, with awful The awful voice of God.

Yet to pure eyes the ladder still is set And angel visitants still come and Many bright messengers are moving From the dark world below. Thoughts that are red-crossed Faith's outspreading wings,
Prayers of the church are keeping time and tryst—
Heart-wishes, making bee-like murmurings, Their flower the eucharist. These are the messengers for ever wending From earth to heaven, that faith alone may scan! These are the angels of our God as-cending cending

Up to the Son of Man.

Direct from S. T. Poli's vaudeville comes forward today with a picture that is of more personal interest to every one in the United States, than any other picture in the world. It is entitled "The Return of Col. Roosevelt," and is by the Vitagraph company, who with their two monster yachts met the great steamer down the bay, and the clever photographers were quick in obtaining every scene worthy of reproduction, up to the time of the landing, when the corps of Vitagraph land photographers took up the thread, and completed this great film. Every scene is one of interest, and many exceptional views are shown of the ex-president, is his many moods. Another reel that is worthy of especial mention is the one entitled The Cowpuncher's Ward, and is a wholesome and breezy western story that is filled to the brim with exciting situations, and noble and willing cowboys. It is one of the most vivid pictures of cowboy justice ever pictured, but is not overdrawn, carrying with it a note of appeal that sinks deep into every heart.
